INFO.

1. At Strada Mihai Bravu No. 12 (now known as Strada Puskin) in Galati there is a "political school" for 200 students where young Rumanians are schooled in the Communist political doctrine. The term is six months.
2. Following their graduation, the young students are entrusted with the more important and responsible positions in factories, industries, schools, and Government services.
3. A similar school has been established for peasant children at Strada Dogariel in Galati. The graduates of this school are sent to the various villages to hold the "responsible" positions in the rural areas. The number of pupils at the school is not known, except that the number is "very large".
